

RETIREMENT COACHING

How are you supporting employees transitioning into retirement?

It is reported that nearly 10,000 workers are retiring each day and this silver tsunami will continue. Retiring employees are an important segment of the workforce that need care, but often receive little support for the transition. Meridian Resources offers a dedicated coaching experience, which guides the employee through a process of evaluating options and making clear decisions and choices at this pivotal point in their life and career.

Let them know how much they are appreciated by giving them the help they need as they exit out of your organization and into a new phase of life.
